Hambourg, April 16, N. S.

BY our last Advices from Rostock, the Magistrates, not being inclined to confirm the Conditions which they pretend were extorted from them, and which they had seem'd to assent to, only to prevent the Consequences they were threatened with from a publick Commotion, the Mob rose again on the 10th Instant; and the Prince then finding that Measures of Lenity would not carry his Cause, has taken Possession of the Customs, Books of Entry, &c. and these Misunderstandings will in all Probability be driven to great Lengths. The new Taxes, laid so heavily upon the Subjects of Sweden, have made the Sufferers desperate in many Places; near Upsal one of the Tax-Gatherers has been killed, and the Bailiff of that District obliged to raise it in Person, with the Assistance of a Detachment of Dragoons.

Liege, April 16, N. S. The French have not advanced so fast as they expected, for Want of Boats and Horses. Marshal Saxe is very impatient at this Delay, and sends Order after Order to hasten them. He hath ordered a vast Quantity of Pallisadoes from Namur, which, it is supposed, he intends to place on the Intrenchments which he is making about his Camp; and hath three Bridges of Pontons below Maestricht, and two others of Boats between Viset and that Town, though that nearest Liege will not be finished till To-morrow. On the 12th Instant 200 Waggons went from Namur, loaded with all Sorts of Ammunition, to the Marshal's Camp, by the Roman Causeway. The 14th, thirteen Pieces of 12 Pound Ball, six of 16, and 20 Mortars, set out for Louvain, to be sent from thence, as is given out, to the Camp before Maestricht, by the Causeway. To-day they expect 65 Boats from Metz and Verdun with Provisions, &c. which, when unloaded, will serve to finish the second Bridge. Of 80 Battering Cannon for the Siege, only 13 are yet arrived, but the rest are hourly expected. They have landed Bullets, Shells, Grenadoes, Mortars, Shovels, &c. which were in Part conveyed Yesterday to Tongres. M. Lowendahl sent Yesterday to demand 20 Pieces of heavy Cannon for his Attack, and the 13 which were arrived were sent to him, and probably he will have the rest at Viset To-day; but it is computed that the Train will not arrive in the Marshal's Camp before Friday. Eight hundred Artillery Horses arrived last Night to draw the Cannon.

Liege, April 19, N. S. The French opened the Trenches before Maestricht in the Night between the 15th and 16th, about 300 Toises from the Cover'd Way. They form'd three Attacks, one between the Gate of Tongres and Bois-le-duc, commanded by Marshal Saxe; another at Wyck, under M. de Lowendahl; and the third at St. Peter's Fort, commanded by the Marquis de Brezé. Last Night between Ten and Eleven the Garrison of Maestricht sallied out upon the Attack made by the French at the Gate of Tongres, which was attended with great Success. Part of the Trenches was filled up, up, and two Batteries, which were this Day to play, were deſtroyed, the Cannon rendered unfit for Service, and the French loſt at leaſt 600 Men. The Loſs of the Garriſon amounted to about 200 Men. The French confeſs that the Fire from the Garriſon is very briſk, well directed, and annoys them much.

Head Quarters at Hellinrouch, April 18, N. S. The Accounts we have of the Enemy are, that Marſhal Saxe has his Head Quarters at Hoechten, and has taken his Poſition from thence to Bilſen, and inveſts Maeſtricht as far as the Jaar. M. de Brezé, with a Corps of about 8 or 9000 Men, is poſted between the Jaar and the Meuſe, and M. de Lowendahl is at Burgharen; Part of his Corps fronts the Geul, and the reſt inveſts the Place on the Wyck Side. Laſt Night a Detachment from the Enemy's Army, conſiſting of 300 Horſe, and as many Foot, who were deſigned to march to Sittart, were attack'd on their Retreat to their Camp, by General Baroniai, who made 111 Priſoners, of which five are Officers; there were alſo a great Number killed. Lord Albemarle arrived Yeſterday at Venlo, and will arrive here the 20th. The Enemy ſeem to deſign to form one Attack on the Wyck Side, and another between the Port of Tongres and that of Bois-le-duc. The Trenches were open'd in the Night between the 15th and 16th. They expected ſome Cannon and Mortars as laſt Night, and that they ſhould fire to Day, but it is thought they will not be ready before the 20th.

Hellinrouch, April 22, N. S. A Letter from Maeſtricht of the 19th gives a very favourable Account of the Diſpoſition of the Garriſon and Governor of that Place. A Sally has been made with a great Number of Men under the Command of the Prince d'Aremberg, which was attended with very good Succeſs, a Battery of the Enemy having been deſtroyed, and 120 Yards of the Trenches filled up. It is reported that the Loſs of the Enemy was very conſiderable; and Advices from Liege mention, that 80 Waggons of wounded Men had been ſent to their Hoſpital. Lord Albemarle is arrived here with nine Britiſh Battalions and four Regiments of Dragoons, four Auſtrian Battalions, and the whole Britiſh Train, and loſt but five Men upon the March.

Hague, April 19, N. S. The Prince of Orange's Field Equipages have been all ſent to Breda; but the Day that his Highneſs purpoſes to put himſelf at the Head of his Army is not certain; but the Troops were to encamp as this Day at Leur, to the Number of fifty Battalions; the Number of Squadrons are not mentioned. The Horſe Guards marched from hence this Morning to join them, but the Remainder of the Foot Guards have not yet received any Orders to march, and it is thought they are to continue here till the Regiment of Swiſs Guards, which is now forming at Delft, is compleated, and ready to come to this Place. By the laſt Letters from Bois-le-duc, the Prince of Swartzemberg's Troops were arrived there, to the Number of 680 Men.

Aix la Chapelle, April 21, N. S. The Spaniſh and Genoeſe Miniſters are arrived here.
